A smart company acts as if the project it is working on and the money it is spending are its own.
That's the kind of company that truly has its customers' best interests at heart.
That's the kind of company you find when you work with Luevano Hart.

Two engineers. One dream.

The world was not hurting for another commercial/industrial plumbing and pipe fitting provider when Hector Luevano and John Hart opened their doors in 2003. The industry was, however, in need of a company that offered skilled solutions combined with a common sense approach; a company with high project standards and even higher ethical standards.

That's exactly the model Luevano and Hart took when they carefully planned their business—they are engineers after all. They leave nothing to chance, and their customers benefit from their methodic approach to each project.

Custom solutions. Consistent service.

No two projects are alike, and therefore, Luevano Hart's approach to each new project is to truly analyze the unique situation by asking questions, offering suggestions based on their experience, providing a fair estimate and delivering a successful end product.

"We approach the biggest jobs with an eye for the tiniest details," said Hector Luevano, president of Luevano Hart. "By the same token, we never put the smaller jobs on the back burner. Every customer is our most important customer. That's how you grow a business. It's as much about customer service as it is about technical services."

That approach has seemed to work well for Luevano Hart over the years. The company has experienced consistent growth and has worked with many of the largest companies and general contractors in the area, including: JE Dunn, General Motors, Ameristar and Honeywell.

Expertise never quits. Quality never sleeps.

From process piping fabrication and installation and commercial HVAC piping and plumbing to mechanical equipment installation, dismantling and relocation, Luevano Hart prides itself on delivering quality results on time and under budget.

No matter what time of the day or season of the year, you'll find their specialists providing preventative maintenance, project management or even emergency service whenever and wherever their customers need them.

Perhaps that's why so many of Luevano Hart's customers are quick to recognize that they've made a smart choice and even quicker to spread the good word about this great Kansas City company.

A few words from the people who matter most: the customers.

"I have personally witnessed Luevano Hart's sense of enthusiasm, leadership and genuine concern for a successful outcome on this difficult project."

Kevin F. McPartland
JE Dunn Construction Company

"Luevano Hart attacked their job with a mission, purpose and pride. Their good nature and customer service skills equally impressed me."

Jacquelyn R. Powell
City of Kansas City, Missouri

"Luevano Hart has been instrumental in the success of many of our projects for General Motors. They are very professional and perform to very high standards."

Robert L. Long
Commercial Contracting Corporation

"Luevano Hart has gone above and beyond in addressing our industrial expansion needs and mechanical concerns. They take great pride in their work."

Art Lambart II
General Motors Body Shop Tool Installation
